

Reality Now: Turning Data into Actionable Information

December 2021

I write to inquire what building is shown on the cover image of the December 2021 issue of Informed Infrastructure. It appears to be a large, round theater building under construction with a framed dome system for the roof structure. I could not find any identifying information inside the journal, except for an image credit.

I teach architectural structures and the building/image is of interest to some of my students.

Thanks,

Professor Dermody,

The building on the cover is the MSG Sphere at The Venetian in Las Vegas. We acquired the cover image after the feature was finished, but we should've noted somewhere what it was. Thanks for pointing out that we did not.
